Who are we and what do we do?

The Paul Dubrulle School of Hotel and Tourism provides young Cambodians with high quality hospitality training that meets both international standards and the needs of local employers in the hotel, restaurant and tourism industry. Through a related non-government organisation, we offer scholarships to underprivileged young Cambodians to give them the training they need to join the hospitality industry. We provide sponsors with progress reports on the students they sponsor, and their eventual placement in the tourism industry.

Our students study theory as well as practical skills. To give them 'hands-on' experience our facility combines classrooms with the typical elements of a hotel. As well as eight classrooms, we have four hotel rooms, a front office, a lobby, a restaurant, a kitchen, a bakery, and a bar. To maximise the benefits of our training, our students also participate in on-the-job assignments in local hotels, restaurants and with tourism operators.

Our hotel and tourism training school is developed from the personal initiative of Paul Dubrulle, co-founder of the Accor Hotel Group. He also founded the NGO Formation et Progrès Cambodge which manages the scholarship program. Paul Dubrulle set up the training school and scholarship program to ensure that young Cambodians have the opportunity to develop their skills and access the new world of opportunities that this will bring.

We invite individuals, groups or corporate organisations who would like to sponsor a student or students to contact us for more information about how to contribute.

What you can experience

- Le Jardin des Delices (the Paul Dubrulle Training Restaurant) provides lunch, light refreshments and afternoon tea, giving students in all disciplines an opportunity to gain valuable experience working as a team in providing exceptional food and excellent guest services.
- The restaurant is open from Tuesday to Friday for lunch. We offer a 3-course set lunch menu for $7.00 that combines the very best of Khmer, International and French cuisine. We also have a small selection of wines and full bar service. We welcome individual and group bookings.
- Following lunch, groups or individuals are invited to join a guided tour of the school and its facilities, accompanied by a teacher or the director.
- The Paul Dubrulle Training Hotel offers visitors an opportunity to stay in our hotel school and assist us with our training. Prices start from US$15 per night and include air-conditioning, hot water, a private bathroom, cable television, and a mini bar. During the week, breakfast is served on our beautiful terrace.
