Business Case Update: Lower NPLs for Women-Led SMEs

A recent survey conducted with IFC banking clients sheds light on the potential size and financial performance of women-led small and medium enterprises (SMEs) and why financial institutions should pay attention to this segment:

Main Findings

• Women SME Loan Portfolios Have Lower Non-Performing Loans (NPLs) than Total SME Loan Portfolios: In a sample of 154 IFC banking clients for CY2017, NPL ratios for loans to women-led SMEs (3.6%) were lower than NPLs for Total SME Loan Portfolios (4.5%) comprising men- and women-led SMEs.

• For Clients in IFC’s Banking on Women (BOW) Business, Women-SME Portfolios Had Even Lower NPLs: In a sample of 35 Banking on Women client banks, NPL ratios for loans to women-led SMEs, or WSMEs, (3.3%), compared to NPLs for the Total SME portfolios of 3.6%, were even lower than the larger sample of IFC client financial institutions that report gender-disaggregated NPL data.

Additional Findings

• Women-led SMEs account for 16% of the overall number of SME loans in portfolios of 154 surveyed IFC client banks in 2017.

• The US$ volume of Women-SME outstanding loans accounted for roughly 10% of the total volume of outstanding SME loans of 154 IFC surveyed clients in 2017.

• Average loan sizes to women-led SMEs were smaller than average loan sizes to total SMEs for 154 sampled IFC clients. Women-led SMEs had average loan sizes of US$27,708 vs. US$43,136 for total SME average loan sizes.
