Provide training on respectful workplaces

BENEFIT:
Enable smoother operations

#ACT2BENEFIT
IMPROVE LIVES, IMPROVE YOUR BUSINESS

“Training on respectful workplaces gets staff to speak up about issues they encounter.”

Ian Gooden, General Manager
Solomon Islands Water Authority

Fifteen of the largest companies in Solomon Islands - including Solomon Islands Water Authority - are pioneering measures to promote gender equality, including new ways to support employees affected by violence. Through the Waka Mere Commitment to Action, they work toward at least one of three goals: more women in leadership, respectful and supportive workplaces, and more women in jobs traditionally held by men. Both companies and employees are seeing the benefits.
