Gender Diagnostic

None of the companies we researched had undertaken a gender diagnostic.
Category A:

Gender Balance in Leadership and Workforce

- Leadership championing: The board, CEOs, and senior management should set the tone and champion the gender equality issues by creating a company culture that embraces gender equality and is backed with measurable targets.

- Targets: Set targets to increase the representation of women at all company levels - in the boardroom, at the executive, in senior management, and the workforce levels. Aim to achieve gender balance of between 40 to 60 percent of women and men company wide.

- Adopt Proactive Approaches: Address barriers to women’s advancement into boardrooms and the C-suite by prioritizing diversity, equity and inclusion throughout the organization, providing professional development opportunities for women, conducting unconscious bias and emotional intelligence training, increasing transparency and disclosure on gender indicators (setting Key Performance Indicators), and holding managers accountable for progress towards diversity goals.

Category B:

Equal Compensation and Work Life Balanc

- Provide increased transparency by publishing information on living wage commitments and gender-disaggregated pay information.
- Put in place a policy and strategy to close the gender pay gap.
- Invest in family friendly workplace policies and practices such as company-sponsored childcare, top-up’s to statutory maternity leave, flexible work arrangement policies covering both hours and locations that are permanent, especially in the wake of COVID-19 pandemic (IFC 2019) (IFC 2020).

Category C:

Policies Promoting Gender Equality

- Support women’s career progression through talent management, recruitment, retention, promotion, mentoring, formal education opportunities, and career development and leadership programs.
- Develop and implement more robust parental leave policies for both parents, flex-work policies regarding time and location, as well as childcare support programs are the starting points.
- Create safe workplaces for both women and men. Companies need to deploy strong anti-sexual harassment policies coupled with frequent training and communications campaigns and support employees affected by domestic violence.
- Implement supplier diversity programs that include women-owned businesses.

Category D:

Commitment, Transparency, and Accountability

- Sign up to voluntary principles such UN Women’s Empowerment Principles (WEPs) to access best practices and about changing trends and strategies to address gender gaps.
- Conduct gender audits to identify gaps, priorities actions and invest for impact.
- Make targets public and report on progress.
