Why Women?

- The World Bank Group recognizes gender equality as smart economics.
- At IFC, we recognize that women entrepreneurs in the developing world are a formidable force. Worldwide, they represent 25-35% of registered businesses.
- Figures from banks do not reflect this - mismatch between that and their presence in banks’ loan portfolios – in Uganda access to 9% of commercial bank credit compared to ownership of 39% of businesses with registered premises.
- In the UK there are more women millionaires between the ages of 18 and 44 than men.
- In the US, women owned businesses employ more people than the Fortune 500 combined.
- Where the Business Environment is favorable, Women’s business thrive (e.g. Canada, US, Women Owned Businesses growing at twice the rate as male owned businesses).
- Increased women’s earnings translate directly into better health, nutrition and education for their families.
Access to finance is the single largest obstacle to SME growth.

Gender inequality magnifies the issue for women entrepreneurs who are less likely than men to have suitable business education and training, and who are also less able to provide adequate collateral (land and property) to banks.
Response – ex: Access Bank, Nigeria

- Structure a line of credit through a Access Bank, a Nigerian commercial bank for on-lending to women entrepreneurs
- Provide advisory services:
  - To the Bank, to enable them to improve their service delivery to women (Global Banking Alliance (GBA)* know how, exploring collateral options, developing new products and staff training)
  - Training to women entrepreneurs, to improve their financial literacy and business management skills, to enable them to access the funds

*The Global Banking Alliance was founded by a group of Banks that have been recognized by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) as best practice banks in terms of reaching the women's market. GEM was mandated to host the GBA's Secretariat in March 2005.
